

Rules for participation in the Hi2morrow training test-exam.

Welcome, dear participant of the Hi2morrow trading demo exam. Don't forget, our test can only be taken by people who have reached the age established by the legislation of the country to start working. At the same time, according to our rules, the minimum age should not be less than 18 years.

We conduct this test to identify a truly capable, reliable trader, or a person with clear potential to work in our team. To do this, we took the performance indicator over the distance as the most important criterion, so it doesn't matter to us how much you can earn in one day (and to eliminate this from the equation, we adopted the 30% rule, read more about it below or on our website). In accordance with this, as you understand, we have certain restrictions, which we understand as the path to stable earnings for a trader. And you need to agree up front that you may not be able to trade any of your strategies due to these restrictions. Let's proceed in order.

1. Our test is for intraday trading only. We do not take into account swing, overnight, premarket, afterhours and optional trading here. Intraday trading in shares only. That is, you cannot leave your trading positions overnight. Moreover, you must close them before 15:45 P.M. If your position is opened after this time, then the manager will cover it, and if it shows a negative result, this result will be added to your total (with a note of violation of our conditions for taking into account when checking the results), but if your result is positive, and the manager will have to close your position for you, then the result of the transaction will be canceled.
Accordingly, positions can be opened only after the NYSE opens at 9:30 A.M.
2. If during trading today you reach your daily loss (the total loss limit for one trading day), you should close your positions as we do not encourage sitting out the negatives and will accordingly take this into account when checking your results if you pass the test.
3. Your main goal is to increase your deposit by the value specified as the goal of your test; the time for completing the test is limited according to the conditions. Your deposit will appear on your platform in the top right corner as Account Value. For example, Account Value is 35,000 and the goal is $1,500 - at the moment when an Account Value of 36,500 or more is recorded on your account, with all closed positions, your test will be considered passed (if you have not violated any of our rules, restrictions and conditions, especially the 30% rule!!!). Accordingly, Account Value 70000 should also become 73000, 105 thousand. should become 109.5 thousand. and 350 thousand. should become 359 thousand, etc.
4. Make sure you follow all our testing rules carefully. According to the table.

9. Upon completion of the test, expect a letter to your email within 3-5 business days (the results will be checked).

10. Next, Elevator for the development of traders in the company, full version:

This table shows the trader levels and the conditions from which a trader begins working in hi2morrow at his level.

Accordingly, if a trader starts with BP (buying power) \$35,000, this is our zero level. But the trader does not remain at this level forever, conditions improve if the trader achieves a positive result of 20 of his daily stops. That is, if a trader is at the zero level and his stop = \$30, then to move to a higher level he needs to make a result of \$600. Important! The transition to another level occurs only after the end of the calendar month. Those. if at the end of the month your balance is +\$600. You can move up to a higher level with improved conditions. The balance is reset to zero and you are paid your payout. Then everything is all over again, with BP 43750 \$ and a daily stop of 37 \$ you need to make a result of at least $37 \times 20 = 740$ \$ to move to the next level, etc.

Important! The result can be achieved not in one, but in several months! But the calculation occurs only at the end of the calendar month.

The table shows the initial (basic, best) level conditions as the results of work in the prop change, the conditions will change dynamically at the beginning of each trading week relative to the current margin indicator but not higher than those corresponding to your level!
Net20R - means that you will have to achieve this result in order for your conditions to be increased to the next step. Where R = your daily stop value.

11. You can develop conditions faster if you show results in accordance with our stability system, you will receive conditions and a table of points when you start working in our company.
